

Now for something completely different

Published: January 13, 2026, 7:39 pm

On a depressing morning, I took a walk.

Butterflies were, finally, out in abundance this morning:

Red admirals, tortoiseshells, comma, gatekeeper, common white and meadow brown were all about. Great to see, because they have been seen in such small numbers so far this year.