

Funding the Future

First-past-the-post is an exercise in undermining democ...

Published: January 12, 2026, 9:23 pm

This was posted on Twitter yesterday:

 Stats for Lefties  @LeftieStats ...

 If all parties had an EQUAL chance of winning in your constituency, how would you vote?

(+/- vs standard voting intention)

- LAB 34% (-10)
- CON 21% (-7)
- GRN 19% (+13)
- LD 12% (+1)
- REF 8% (+1)
- SNP 4% (-)

Via @FindoutnowUK / @ElectCalculus, 15-16 August

Don't tell me that first-past-the-post does not undermine democracy when that data makes it so clear that it very obviously does.

And no wonder the Greens are angry about this. They have every right to be.

Labour Party members know this and support proportional representation anyway. They did so at its party conference.

Starmer is ignoring them. He is no friend of democracy.