

Question of the day: Will Labour move left once it is i...

Published: January 13, 2026, 10:49 am

It has often been suggested that Labour is having to put on the appearance of supporting Tory-lite policy to secure the votes that it needs to win office.

But is that true? Or is it really the case that Labour now believes in the Tory-lite agenda that many in the Shadow Cabinet appear to be promoting and that this is what they really will deliver when in government? What do you think?

[poll id="89"]