

Teasels

Published: January 13, 2026, 9:24 am

I love teasels. There is something intensely satisfying about them.

Mind you, I shocked myself on an electric fence getting that photo earlier today. The compensation was that moments later several flocks of fieldfare flew over. It is definitely autumn.

The location was Kingfisher Bridge nature reserve, as is often the case for me on a Sunday, but more inland this time. The view is over the reed beds.