There are a number of themes I might have posted about this morning.

Martin Wolf has an article worth commenting on in the FT.

I could develop a theme on the relevance of MMT posted in reply to a question in the comments section.

I could also ponder on a world where it seems Putin will never go away.

However, I will be at my step-mother's funeral today and my mind will be elsewhere. There is also some travelling involved. I am not sure how much time that will allow for moderation, at least until early evening, by when the task might look overwhelming and I may not have enthusiasm for it.

So, on reflection I have decided not to post anything of substance today. Please accept my apologies, but sometimes the rest of life does have to take priority.
