

Gone birding

I said I might do so birdwatching.

This is a pintail, one of our rarer ducks:

And these are male and female teal looking at their very best:

And this is what shoveller and black-tailed godwits doing what they do best: putting their heads underwater:

And finally, the most glamorous of them all: an avocet:

They're all taken at some distance, but it was a fun visit to Cley, in Norfolk.
