

Censorship?

Published: January 14, 2026, 7:53 pm

Yesterday, this post of mine was removed from TikTok for a while:

Apparently, it violated rules by encouraging hate speech. I appealed, explaining that it was calling for ethical politics based on compassion-based convictions, and it was restored.

This morning, I had a warning from Facebook that this post in which I discuss the Tory manifesto costings might also encourage hate speech:

 Richard Murphy
34 minutes ago ·
The Tory economic costings are not worth the paper they're written on, so completely ludicrous are they.

Far-right thought and deep misogyny thrive on these sites. But I am getting warnings for providing reasoned political comment.

What is going on?