This morning's short video has now been published. In it I argue that all prime ministers want to be remembered. What will a man as bland as Keir Starmer be remembered for?

You can view the video here.

The transcript is:

What will Keir Starmer be remembered for?

Most Prime Ministers are remembered for something.

Harold Wilson, the first Prime Minister I can remember, was remembered for three things. The Open University, legalising homosexuality and legalising abortion. Massive social progress.

David Cameron is remembered for losing the EU referendum.

Boris Johnson is remembered for taking us out of the EU, and parties of course.

But Starmer? Has he got the personality to be remembered for anything? Or will he be like Ted Heath, or Jim Callaghan, or maybe even Gordon Brown? Those Prime Ministers who just don't leave a mark.
