I was, as is often the case, on the Kingfisher Bridge Nature Reserve this morning. Natural fractals were to be seen:

The last of the wild roses were flowering, hips being dominant on these bushes now:

Columbine was looking good in two forms:

I am not sure what this is, but I liked it:

Then we sat by the River Cam. Yesterday's clouds appear in these two reflections:

And after a while, these cygnets sought shelter near us from the ugly motor cruiser whose wake is in the background. Both parents and another sibling were nearby, these four being led off in single file, close to the bank for their own safety:

All were taken on an iPhone today.
