I have posted this on Twitter:

 Richard Murphy  @RichardJMurphy · Now
Badenoch v Jenrick. With those words, we can summarise the decline leading to the demise of the Tories. Both are as bad as Truss, if not worse. I don't see how they recover from this.

I mentioned the implausibility of any of the Tory leadership candidates managing the messaging that the Tories must now create if they are to take on Labour, the LibDems, Reform, the SNP and the Greens simultaneously. I think it is beyond the wit of either of the remaining candidates to work out the messaging on anything.

Maybe the Tories really are over. Electing a completely ridiculous twice in two years is more than any party can do and hope to survive, however long their history. And to be blunt, these two are batshit crazy. On this occasion, I can think of no better description.
