There is no video today.

Thomas arrived for a recording session yesterday morning, and it was my turn to tell him that he was unfit to film. He has obviously caught the lurgy I have had. As we have now run out of pre-recorded videos, this will be the first day since April that we will not post one. That's a record that we can be quite pleased with.

Videos may be back tomorrow, but if they are, it is likely that we will have to use an audio-only format for a day or two while Thomas recovers.
