

Will Heathrow ever have a third runway?

Published: January 13, 2026, 9:48 am

I was discussing the approval of a new runway at Heathrow with an old friend yesterday. We agreed that even if this runway were built, we would never go down it because the likelihood that we would still be fit to fly when it is completed is very low.

Then we agreed that the chance that it will be built is almost as low as the probability that we might ever use it.

So, what do you think?

[poll id="128"]