In the National: my column now comes out on Mondays

Published: January 13, 2026, 3:57 pm

I have been a columnist for The National newspaper in Scotland for four years now.

From this week onwards, my column shifts from Thursday and online only to Monday and is in the paper itself.

The screenshot shows a news article from The National. The header includes links for Newsletters, Puzzles, Reader Rewards, Donate, Shop, and Contact us. It also features a Digital Edition button and a user profile icon. The main navigation bar has categories: News, Politics, Culture, Sport, Community, Business, Comment, Journalists, and Seven Days. Below this, a sub-navigation bar shows Politics, SNP, Scottish Greens, Alba, Labour, Conservatives, The Jouker, FMQs, and Holyrood. The article is titled 'COMMENT Donald Trump's economic shock-and-awe attack is just beginning'. It was published 3 HRS AGO and includes tags for DONALD TRUMP, SCOTLAND'S ECONOMY, TARIFFS, ECONOMY, POLITICS, and SCOTLAND. The author is listed as 'By Professor Richard Murphy, Columnist @RichardJMurphy'. Below the author's photo, there is a 'Sign up' button for 'The Ferret newsletter' with a note about weekly investigations from award-winning co-op The Ferret, collaborating with the Sunday National. A small note at the bottom of this sidebar states: 'By signing up to this newsletter, you agree to our privacy policy and terms of service'. The main content of the article discusses Donald Trump's economic policies.

For copyright reasons, I have deleted the photo between those two images.

There are some amazing offers on subscriptions to The National right now. Give them a look.
