

Funding the Future

Thank you

Published: January 13, 2026, 4:23 am

I spent some time last night translating comments in response to my request for video ideas, made yesterday, into the mindmap that I use to record these ideas.

The result is that more than fifty videos, not all of which I would have thought of, have been added to my list.

There are now more than 100 on the list, and some, of course, are always made in response to current circumstances, but these ideas give me much more to think about, and that really helps.

Thanks to all involved.

My list is still open.

What I can't promise is when any video might be made. But I have a lot more to think about now, and that genuinely helps.