It is another day where there is much more to say than there is time to do it in.

Trump's actions in seeking to control the National Guard in California are now subject to a legal dispute. He lost round one. What is clear is that this is all a diversionary tactic by a desperate fascist, desperate to foster tension.

Netanyahu is doing the same by attacking Iran, and people are losing their lives again.

And here Labour says it has no intention of backing down on benefit cuts, none of which are necessary.

We are living in a profoundly hostile world, where the odds are stacked in favour of a desperate few.

This is what the Age of Aggression looks like.
