

The mess we're in

This is the latest from Led by Donkeys.

It tells us what we already know.

But what it also says is that we weren't just taken for a ride by those on the left who have swung so far to the right, but most decidedly by the right itself, including Farage.

There wasn't a conspiracy, and not just because these people are not capable of organising one. Instead, there was a belief in a dogma that was utterly incapable of delivering for us, and that madness is still at the core of the government we have. It's a belief in neoliberalism that has got us to the mess we're in.
