It has been pointed out to me by my wife, so I definitely noticed, that I may be publishing too much content on here at present.

Since I retired, and even more so over the summer months, I seem to have been suffering from a surfeit of ideas and an urgent desire to share them, but Jacqueline has suggested that I may be putting out so many big ideas that I might be overwhelming you, the reader, of whom she is one.

We discussed this, then took a walk to think about it, had a coffee to reflect on it, and I then decided to ask you, the reader, for an opinion. It would be useful to know.
