This is the latest YouGov polling data chart for the period since the general election in the UK:

For the sake of comparison, this is the chart in the five-year period running up to that election:

The current data is:

- * Reform UK 27%(+1),
- * CON 17%(nc)
- * LAB 17%(-3)
- * GRN 16%(+1)
- * LDEM 15%(nc)
- * Others 3%

The figures do not add to 100% due to rounding.

To say that is unprecedeted is to understate the situation.

The country is anti-fascist, clearly.

Fascists could win, especially with Tory support.

And still, Labour says nothing about electoral reform.
