Don't be disabled in the UK

This is from the Office for Budget Responsibility, in 2023:

Chart F: Spending on non-pensioner cash benefits across OECD countries, 2019

Note: We estimate public spending on cash benefits for non-pensioners by subtracting 'old age' and 'survivors' spending from total cash benefits spending.

The message is, don't be disabled in the UK: we really do not support those who are at all well.

I wonder what Sir Jim Ratcliffe has to say about that?

Or Farage? I can't help but think they are mates.

We really do need a politics for people that can deliver a politics of care.
