

Noting the odds

Published: February 3, 2026, 7:20 am

This was encouraging when I noticed it on Twitter last night:

Saul Staniforth
@SaulStaniforth

The bookies now have the Greens odds on favourites to win the Gorton & Denton by-election.

The message from them is - if you want to stop Reform you need to vote Green.

Party	Best Odds	QuickBet	William Hill	Unibet	bet365	betfair	betdaq	betfred	betgenie	betmonsters	betonline	betonline2	betonline3	betonline4	betonline5	betonline6	betonline7	betonline8	betonline9	betonline10	betonline11	betonline12	betonline13	betonline14	betonline15	betonline16	betonline17	betonline18	betonline19	betonline20
Green	5/1	4/5	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4
Reform	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4	5/4
Labour	10/1	5	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1	10/1
Workers Party of Britain	50	40	100	200	200	200	200	200	200	200	200	200	200	200	200	200	200	200	200	200	200	200	200	200	200	200	200	200	200	200
Conservatives	800	250	250	500	250	250	500	250	250	500	250	250	500	250	250	500	250	250	500	250	250	500	250	250	500	250	250	500	250	250	500
Lib Dems	800	250	250	500	250	250	500	250	250	500	250	250	500	250	250	500	250	250	500	250	250	500	250	250	500	250	250	500	250	250	500

8:05 AM · Feb 2, 2026 · 21.8K Views

461785454

You might have to click the image to see a larger version to read the odds, but they are stacked in favour of the Greens in every case except one, where they have the same odds as Reform.

In every case, Labour lags well behind, and the Tories and LibDems are far behind the Workers Party of Britain.

What's the message? The bookies have noticed that people have learned to vote tactically, and can see who has the chance if keeping Reform out here, whilst giving Labour the kicking it deserves.

My fingers are crossed.