

How to properly Google search the site — the most pow...

Published: July 14, 2026, 6:17 am

It seems to me that many users of this site do not know how to properly search it using Google's advanced search facility, which offers far more control than the site's own search function.

To search only this site using Google, type the following directly into Google's search box:

site:taxresearch.org.uk followed by [your search term]

For example:

- * site:taxresearch.org.uk sectoral balances
- * site:taxresearch.org.uk household budget analogy
- * site:taxresearch.org.uk wealth tax

You can add a date range using Google's filter tools: click Tools under the search bar, then select Any time, and choose the period you want.

To search for an exact phrase, put it in quotation marks. For example:

site:taxresearch.org.uk "money is a social construct"

This is the fastest way to find a specific post or all posts on a particular topic.

Does this help?