

Funding the Future

I worked late last night on my book outline.

I was up early this morning. The news was not good. In fact, it is depressing.

Without a videographer, I did not do my usual Monday morning activity of making new videos. So Jacqueline and I went out birdwatching, albeit with books and computers in tow.

It was rewarding:

- * Curlew
- * Spoonbill
- * Little egret
- * Black-tailed godwit
- * Redhsank
- * Greenshank
- * Spotted redshank
- * Oystercather
- * Dunlin

And that was just the waders.

Sometimes it is necessary to restore the balance in life - and that list is more than enough to keep me happy.
